

Information Retrieval and Web Information Access

Instructor: Chengxiang Zhai

This tutorial will introduce the foundation and technologies of Web search. We will first systematically review the basic concepts, models, and techniques in information retrieval, which is the foundation of all search engine technologies. We will then discuss special challenges in Web search and review new technologies developed recently for Web search.